Introduction

The importance of Sanskrit is quite evident from its all-India attribution. It goes without saying that it is the basis of most of the modern Indian languages. It is closely associated with the country's cultural heritage and national solidarity. The acquisition of Sanskrit is indispensable not only for the study of the classical books composed in that language, but principally as the mother-language of a great number of Indian dialects. There are numbers of people who identify Sanskrit with a mental makeup which opposes everything modern and hinders progress. This view is wholly untenable. Equally untenable is the attitude which becomes evident in the unfortunate propaganda that Sanskrit is the language of a particular community.

Results and Discussions

If one goes by the proceedings of the Constituent Assembly of India and sections of the Constitution of India adopted in 1949 apart from judgements of Supreme Court of India and some of the High Courts, the importance of Sanskrit would be established. Going by such facts, the Union Government as well as State Governments should promote the study of Sanskrit. It should become integral part of school and college curriculum.

The Comparative Study of Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution of India

Introduction

The Constitution of India is the fundamental law of the land. It was drafted to be read and understood by layman and layman alike, however after the seven decades from the day we got independence the sacred articles of Constitution of India become so difficult that if today a layman would certainly be lost if he is to go by the bare text of Constitution. And the reason is that there is a broad difference between the bare text and what is being followed courtesy several judgements by Hon'ble Courts of law be it Supreme Court, apex court of law in India or be it High Court.

Today, world's largest democracy is stood tall and doing great is because it has been now and then supported by its judicial pillar where several have been martyred during this holy struggle. India has been under British rule for over two hundred years straight. Britishers though introduced formal courts of law in India but they didn't allow much discretion to judges to exercise as they codified the laws here. Therefore, when we adopted Constitution in 1950 the courts of law were not conscious enough to venture far from the meaning of the words of laws in force. However, after the emergency of 1975 judiciary began its transformation from judiciary of police state to that of a welfare state in true sense. From here now, courts of law started to adopt purposive interpretation, golden rule of interpretation to the provisions of law in order to do complete justice.

Statement of Problem:

The central issue the researcher will attempt to address through the project the role of judiciary by the interpretation of the jurisdiction of writs under Articles 32 and 226 under the Constitution of India which provide constitutional remedy on violation of fundamental rights. In the light of this, research work will discuss the inter-relation and difference between the power of High Courts and Supreme Court. Further, discuss will concentrate on how the court

The factors that should be considered when deciding on the optional subject of interest to the subject of the subject, range of brands of candidates who appear, availability of a good amount of study material, etc. Cover the stupid sources of history, art, culture, geography, policy, economy, environment, science and technology as well as possible in useless 2-3 months. Once you have covered the sources stretched, analyze the last 7-8 years of preliminary years and Question Documents of UPSC mains to identify the standards and common themes in which UPSC fits questions each year. For examples ' Buddhism and Jainism, the contribution of Gandhiji to the fight against Indian freedom, water conservation, regionalism, secularism, constitutional amendments, federalism, relationships -Eu, WTO, Digital Infrastructure and E-Governan, and Education, Employment Creation, Order and Eco-Manual Research, Renewable Energy, Management that of disasters, scientific intervention in notion, border management, etc. You can avoid making notes on current matters, but you should make written notes in your optional subject. In addition, making notes for stupid affairs can be avoided especially in the prompt, but for the network, you should have concise notes in each of the subtitles mentioned in the official UPSC program. You can make network notes in the format (introduction, body, conclusion) and also include appropriate facts, figures such as maps, flowcharts, dwarf in your notes that you can use directly on the main exam as by demand of the question. For the phase solving as many MCQ questions as possible is very significant to master the skills and intelligent guessing skills.This is very important as UPSC CSE Preliminary Stage has become the dicest and most unpredictable stage of this exam, so you have to solve as many MCQs as possible on a daily basis (at least 20) to master your intuition skills.Also, work on the essay and ethics paper diligently, as these two papers can greatly enhance your chances of clearing mains and ultimately getting a rank.Use a lot of real-life examples, and flow charts in your ethics answers and take cues from the current happenings in news in the case studies to give your answers a unique human touch, and thus better marks than the rest.For the essay paper, analyze the last 10-12 years of the UPSC papers to identify the major themes on which UPSC has been framing the essay topics. Prepare notes on each of these themes with the inclusion of proper quotes, facts, anecdotes, multi-dimensional analysis, arguments for and against the topic, historical evolution, problems associated, practical and sustainable solutions, international best practises, and the values mentioned in the Constitution of India like the Preamble.Study the NCERT Notes on Cabinet Mission here.How to Cover Current Affairs for UPSC IAS ExamsIt is advisable to follow a minimum of 1 newspaper like eÁÁÁThe Hindu eÁÁÁ on a daily basis for UPSC preparation for beginners.
